

HITCH

Boardroom Scene:

Albert: Excuse me...I don't really agree with that. I think if you want to invest half a million dollars in your friend's business, that's exactly what you should do. You don't need us to tell you what to do. We're a board of advisors. We're not your kindergarten teachers. And if you want to be taken seriously as an adult, I suggest you start taking yourself seriously as an adult instead of asking for permission to invest your own money from a boardroom full of your daddy's golf buddies.

No, you know what, I'm not finished. I mean I'd like to see anybody in this room handle the attention and publicity that she's had to deal with her whole life with half her class. We should be taking advice from you Miss Cole not the other way around.

No, you know what, I quit!

Office Door scene:

Allegra: It's Allegra Cole. Can I speak to you a second?

Albert: Yes, hi. What's up?

Allegra: Listen...Albert, right? People don't usually talk to me like that, okay? Let me rephrase that. People never talk to me like that.

Albert: I...I understand.

Allegra: I guess it's kind of scary for them but that's why I really appreciate what you did in there. But I was wondering...ah... do you think you and I could get together sometime this week? You know to go over things? Financial things... You see I'd like to see the areas where I can afford to take some risks.

Albert: I gotta to check my schedule, Miss Cole.

Allegra: Great! Let me give you my number. Do you have a pen? I don't think I have one...

Albert: Yes, I do

Allegra: Okay...(writes number) Oh and call me Allegra.

Albert: Goodbye
