

MYSTIC PIZZA

(Late at night. Daisy is sweeping the restaurant. Kat enters.)

KAT
Hi, Dais.

(Pause. No response from Daisy who continues sweeping.)

Hey, I'm sorry I didn't show up.

(Still no response from Daisy.)

I said I'm sorry. Why are you being such an idiot about it?

DAISY
Right. I'm a idiot, and you're an angel no matter what happens.
Shoulda been stamped on our birth certificates.

KAT
What the heck's the big deal? You unload shifts on me all the time.

DAISY
You knew I was supposed to meet Charlie's parents tonight.

KAT
(As she remembers) Daisy, I'm sorry. I forgot.

DAISY
Tim needed you, right? Just what the heck do you two do together anyway? That's what I'd like to know.

KAT
If I told you, it would sound stupid.

DAISY

It would sound pathetic. Daddy boffing the babysitter is a really old story. It happens all the time.

KAT

(In defense) We talk. We read. We listen to Mozart sometimes.

DAISY

You really believe this 35 year old guy is gonna leave his wife and live happily ever after with you? You're living in a romance novel, Kat!

KAT

Oh, yeah. Boffing! The great Daisy, nobody's fool. Why don't you start taking cash for your services. It would be more honest!

(Daisy moves to Kat and start to slap her but stops herself.)

DAISY

Wipe your conscience.

(Daisy exits.)

KAT

Crap.