

EXT. DESERT - DAY

All the police cars are still following about a half a mile behind. The car is bouncing and flying across the desert. Finally, they get about twenty yards from the edge and Louise SLAMS on the brakes.

Thelma and Louise are just waiting for the cars to catch up. The police cars stop in a line about two hundred yards behind them. The dust from the cars is blowing across them. They just sit looking at the Grand Canyon.

From the canyon, the FBI helicopter rises up in front of the car.

THELMA

God! It looks like the Army!

LOUISE

All this for us?

Thelma starts to laugh. Louise is only concerned with missing the cacti and other obstacles that lie before her.

THELMA

Now what?

LOUISE

We're not giving up, Thelma.

THELMA

Then let's not get caught.

LOUISE

What are you talkin' about?

THELMA

(indicating the Grand Canyon)
Go.

LOUISE

Go?

Thelma is smiling at her.

THELMA

Go.

They look at each other, look back at the wall of police cars, and then look back at each other. They smile.

They are still looking at each other really hard.

THELMA

You're a good friend.

LOUISE

You, too, sweetie, the best.

SHOOT WITH OR WITHOUT.

MUSIC: B.B. King song entitled "Better Not Look Down" begins. It is very upbeat.

LOUISE

Are you sure?

Thelma nods.

THELMA

Hit it.

Louise puts the car in gear and FLOORS it.
