

WOMAN ON TOP

TONINHO

Isabella!

MONICA

Oh, my God.

ISABELLA

- Toninho!

TONINHO

I need to speak to you... alone.

MONICA

Izzy, I'll be right here.

ISABELLA

- What happened to your face?

TONINHO

- What happened?

- I was defending your honor!

ISABELLA

- My honor doesn't need defending.

TONINHO

Oh, no? I travel half the planet searching for the Isabella I know and love.

And I find you on TV looking so...

You're looking...

You look beautiful.

Like when we first met and I made you my wife.
Your skin tasted of salt, and your hair held a scent of cinnamon. And when you kissed me, your lips burned with chili pepper. It made my head spin.
Now here you are. Come home with me where you belong.

ISABELLA

I belong where I choose to be. And I choose to be here.

TONINHO

Do you also choose to dress like this? It's not proper, not in your condition.

ISABELLA

- What condition is that?

TONINHO

- Married to me.

ISABELLA

Funny. You don't act married.

TONINHO

For three years I've been lying flat on my back for you.

Three years!

Not to mention that I never get to drive anywhere!
You know, I'm not some thing that can be moved around like a puppet.

ISABELLA

Fine. From now on you can move wherever you like.

TONINHO

Isabella, I swear on my mother's grave, you are the only woman I ever loved.

ISABELLA

Your mother is still alive.

TONINHO

That's not the point. You can't leave me.

You're my wife.

ISABELLA

Goodbye, Toninho.